ONTARIO JURIES NEED FIRST NATIONS REPRESENTATION

Ministry of the Attorney General Asks First Nations People to Fill Out the Juror Questionnaire

Every year, the Ministry of Attorney General sends out juror questionnaires to people across the province. This year's questionnaires are about to be mailed. About one in every 12 people living in Ontario will get one in the mail this summer.

People who fill out a juror questionnaire could be included on a list of potential jurors called a jury roll. This is the first step towards possibly being called for jury duty sometime in the following year.

People who sit on a jury share their wisdom and experience to benefit other jury members and the community. Every courthouse needs jurors for criminal trials, civil trials, and coroner's inquests.

Ontario juries need First Nations representation. The Ministry of the Attorney General is asking all First Nations people who receive a questionnaire to fill it out and return it as soon as possible.

The Problem

There are not enough First Nations people on Ontario's Jury Rolls.

In some places, judges have decided that a trial would not be fair because there were not enough First Nations people on the jury roll. In those cases, the trial or inquest could not go ahead. Everyone involved was denied a peaceful closure.

The Solution

The ministry is asking people who receive a juror questionnaire to complete and return the form as soon as possible so that the jury roll includes your First Nations community. It can also mean that trials and inquests can go forward and there is closure for everyone, including victims and families.

Being selected for jury duty

Not everyone who fills out a questionnaire is selected for jury duty. People who are selected will receive a summons in the mail. If you need to travel to court you can call the courthouse and ask for help booking travel and a hotel. They may even be able to arrange to pay jurors expenses in advance, including meals, hotel and travel.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, call the Indigenous Jury Coordinator at 1-866-869-4484 or the Provincial Jury Centre at 1-800-498-8016. You can also visit Ontario.ca/juryduty

ONTARIO JURIES NEED FIRST NATIONS REPRESENTATION

It's that time of the year. Juror questionnaires are going out in the mail. If you receive a juror questionnaire, please fill it out. Filling out a questionnaire does not mean you will be chosen for jury service, but it's the first step.

When

Juror questionnaires will be sent out between June and July One in 12 people living in Ontario will get one this summer. Watch for yours.

Why

Your wisdom and experience is valuable. Ontario juries need First Nations representation.

How You Can Help

You can help make sure that Ontario juries benefit from First Nations wisdom and experience by filling out the juror questionnaire.

If you need help, call the Indigenous Jury Coordinator at 1-866-869-4484 or the Provincial Jury Centre at 1-800-498-8016. You can also visit Ontario.ca/juryduty
