Warshield is connecting with Indigenous communities across Canada to gather and amplify Indigenous voices surrounding resource development in their territory.

Between May and June 2023, the Warshield team will conduct interviews with community leaders, and gather feedback through an anonymous, online survey. The feedback we gather will be shared with TC Energy in an anonymous summary report.

The TCListsens project is an independent research initiative conducted by Warshield, an Indigenous consulting firm, and commissioned by TC Energy, one of North America's leading energy infrastructure companies, for the purpose of understanding Indigenous Peoples' priorities, and relationship, with TC Energy. It will also inform TC Energy's commitment to, and actions related to, truth and reconciliation.

TC Energy is one of North America's leading energy infrastructure companies with operations in the natural gas, oil and power industries. By working together and ensuring open communication with Indigenous groups, TC Energy can strive to earn their respect and trust to establish and grow positive long-term relationships.
